Iran's N. Chief: MPs Emphasize on Legalization of Nuclear Roadmap

Fars News Agency, August 1, 2022

Head of the Atomic Energy Organization of Iran (AEOI) Mohammad Eslami said that Iranian lawmakers are pushing to line up a roadmap for the development of the country's nuclear industry in order that the change of administrations would not have an impact on Tehran's nuclear program. "The lawmakers are seeking to turn the 50-year roadmap for nuclear industry into law so nuclear development would be shielded from decisions by the next administrations," Eslami stated after a meeting with the parliament's Energy Committee on Sunday evening. He added the AEOI has planned to develop nuclear energy, including use of radiations and radiopharmaceuticals, so the nuclear technology would be more tangible in people's lives.

AEOI Chief Underlines Iran's Opposition to Military N. Drive Despite Capability

Fars News Agency, August 1, 2022

Head of the Atomic Energy Organization of Iran (AEOI) Mohammad Eslami on Monday said Tehran enjoys the capability to develop a military nuclear program, but has no intention to do so. "As Mr. [Seyed Kamal] Kharazi [Head of Iran's Strategic Foreign Relations Council] stated, Iran has the technical ability to build an atomic bomb, but such a program is not on agenda," Eslami told FNA. The nuclear chief highlighted that these accusations are being raised by "the Zionist regime to deceive the public opinion". Tehran says it is refining uranium only for civilian energy uses, adding all nuclear activities of Iran are under the supervision of the International Atomic Energy Agency, and the IAEA's verification activities and reports have proved the peaceful nature of the country's nuclear program.

AEOI Spokesman: Iran Starts Injecting Gas into Hundreds More IR6 Centrifuges

Fars News Agency, August 2, 2022

The Atomic Energy Organization of Iran has started injecting gas into hundreds of new centrifuge machines, (AEOI) Spokesman Behrouz Kamalvandi said. Kamalvandi said that the order to launch and inject gas to hundreds of centrifuges including IR1 and IR6 advanced machines was issued on Monday evening. He also added that the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) has already been informed of the measure. "The order is in line with the implementation of the Law on Strategic Action on Removing Sanctions and Safeguarding the Interests of the Iranian nation," the official continued. The official stated that "the order also aims to fulfil the target of enrichment using 190,000 separative work units (SWUs), which is the least amount that the country needs".

Feeding gas to centrifuges a response to U.S. sanctions: nuclear chief

Tehran Times, August 3, 2022

The head of the Atomic Energy Organization of Iran (AEOI), Mohammad Eslami, said on Wednesday that Iran's move to inject gas into a new batch of advanced centrifuges was a response to recent U.S. sanctions against Iran. Speaking to reporters on the sidelines of a cabinet session, Eslami said the move came within the framework of a nuclear law known as the strategic action law and a response to the recent oil sanctions imposed by the U.S. "Americans regularly admit the failure of the policy of maximum pressure and have no hope for this policy. However, we are witnessing the dual and multiple behaviors of America and the false accusation that they attribute to the country for 20 years," he said, according to IRNA. Eslami said that the West used allegations made by Israel and anti-revolutionary forces to exert pressure on Iran.

Nuclear chief: Iran will turn on IAEA cameras if accusations dropped

Tehran Times, August 5, 2022

Mohammad Eslami, the head of the Atomic Energy Organization of Iran (AEOI), said on Thursday that Iran will turn on the International Atomic Energy Agency's surveillance cameras provided that all accusations levelled against the Islamic Republic are withdrawn. Eslami made the comment in an interview with IRNA on whether Iran would turn on the cameras if an agreement is reached over the revival of the 2015 nuclear deal, officially called the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action, or the JCPOA. The official explained that the cameras will be switched on again only after all anti-Iran allegations are withdrawn and they return to their commitments under the JCPOA. The cameras, that were switched off, were beyond Safeguards agreement installed under the JCPOA, Eslami explained.

AEOI Spokesman: Safeguard-Related Issues Discussed During Vienna Talks

Fars News Agency, August 7, 2022

Atomic Energy Organization of Iran (AEOI) Spokesman Behrouz Kamalvandi said that safeguard-related issues are being argued during the ongoing negotiations in Vienna. The AEOI spokesman is in Austria's Vienna for talks on the differences with the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) over the safeguard-related issues. "We are yet talking about that," Kamalvandi told reporters, speaking about the settlement of the issue. He made the remark on the sidelines of a meeting between the Iranian negotiating team and EU Coordinator of the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA) talks, Enrique Mora. In response to a question on how the talks are going on, Kamalvandi snoted, "It's not bad."

Vienna talks end with proposal on table

Tehran Times, August 8, 2022

The latest round of nuclear talks in Vienna to revive the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA) ended on Monday with a modified text on the table. An Iranian foreign ministry official told IRNA that on Monday that Enrique Mora, the EU coordinator for the talks, presented some ideas on the remaining issues to the parties. "We conveyed our initial response and reservations as soon as we received them. But these items require a comprehensive review and we'll convey our additional views to the coordinator and others," the official said. The official also said that progress was achieved on some subjects. "Undoubtedly, the principled policy for us is to protect the rights and interests of the Iranian nation. Realizing these rights and providing benefits and ensuring the sustainable implementation of the other party's commitments and preventing the repetition of illegal U.S. behavior are the serious concerns of the negotiating team," the official reiterated.

Khayyam: The sky is the limit

Tehran Times, August 9, 2022

According to Russia's State Space Corporation Roscosmos, a Fregat booster delivered the Iranian Khayyam satellite launched from the Baikonur spaceport in Kazakhstan into orbit on Tuesday, marking a landmark moment in Iranian history. "A Russian Soyuz-2.1b carrier rocket launched from the Baikonur Cosmodrome and a Fregat booster successfully delivered the Iranian Khayyam Earth's remote sensing satellite into the designated orbit," Roscosmos reported. It was launched at 08:52 a.m. Moscow time. The launch of the satellite marks a watershed moment in Russia-Iran collaboration, according to Roscosmos chief Yury Borisov. "The successful launch of the satellite for and an order from Iran has become a landmark event in the Russia-Iran bilateral cooperation that paves the way for implementing new and more dimensional projects," he said.

Iran to Inaugurate Major Water Desalination Project at Bushehr Power Plant

Fars News Agency, August 15, 2022

Governor of Bushehr Province Ahmad Mohammadizadeh said that Iran will begin construction works for a major water desalination project at Bushehr nuclear power plant within weeks. Mohammadizadeh stated on Sunday that works for Iran's first nuclear-powered desalination plant will start in late August concurrent with ceremonies to mark the Administration Week in the country. "The Atomic Energy Organization of Iran (AEOI) will contribute to the construction of the desalination plant in Bushehr which will have a capacity of 70,000 cubic meters per day," he added. "The nuclear power can solve the water crisis and this project has become final ... the execution phase will begin during the Administration Week and it will come on line based on the schedule," he was quoted as saying by the semi-official Fars news agency. The governor added that nuclear reactors in the two planned power plant units in Bushehr will be used to operate two desalination projects with a combined capacity of 150,000 cubic meters per day.

Israel's Military Success Pushes Gaza Solution Even Further Away

Haaretz, August 8, 2022

On the face of it, Operation Breaking Dawn was a resounding success. At least from the Israeli perspective. The entire military leadership of Islamic Jihad in Gaza was eliminated in a relatively brief offensive that didn't last long enough to register on the international diplomatic scene, let alone lead to any type of pressure on Israel to cease fire.

US approves sale of 300 Patriot missiles, costing $3.05 billion, to Saudi Arabia

Saudi Gazette, August 3, 2022

The State Department of United States has approved the sale of 300 Patriot missiles to Saudi Arabia in a deal worth $3.05 billion, the Pentagon said on Tuesday. In a statement released by the Pentagon, the US said Riyadh requested PATRIOT MIM-104E Guidance Enhanced Missile-Tactical Ballistic missiles (GEM-T). The sale will include other tools and test equipment. The principal contractor will be US-based Raytheon. "This proposed sale will support the foreign policy goals and national security objectives of the United States by improving the security of a partner country that is a force for political stability and economic progress in the Gulf region,” the Pentagon said. This sale would improve Saudi Arabia’s ability to meet current and future threats by “replenishing its dwindling stock of PATRIOT GEM-T missiles,” the Pentagon said while citing “persistent Houthi cross-border” drone and ballistic missile attacks on civilian sites and critical infrastructure in Saudi Arabia.

Saudi Arabia: Israel's refusal to join UN treaty a 'grave obstacle' to nuclear disarmament

Middle East Eye, August 4, 2022

Saudi Arabia has raised concerns about Israel's refusal to join a United Nations nuclear non-proliferation treaty, saying it was an obstacle to achieving peace in the region. The warning was a rare moment of Saudi criticism of Israel, with Riyadh and other Gulf countries recently working together, along with Israel, to combat Iran's nuclear programme. Saudi Arabia's new permanent representative to the United Nations, Abdulaziz al-Wasil, made the comments on Wednesday during a conference to review the UN's Non-Proliferation Treaty. "There is Israel's continuing refusal to accede to the [Non-Proliferation Treaty] and this is a grave obstacle" for nuclear disarmament, Wasil said.

Saudi Arabia warns of Iran and Israel 'nuclear practices'

Middle East Monitor, August 4, 2022

Saudi Arabia's envoy to the United Nations, Ambassador Dr. Abdulaziz bin Mohamed Al-Wasel, has warned of the repercussions of "Iran's nuclear practices" and Israel's non-accession to the Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons. "The danger of nuclear weapons spread threatens the Middle East and the world," he said, stressing on the need to "confront nuclear proliferation in the Middle East". Dr. Al-Wasel considered that Israel's non-accession to the UN Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons "reinforces the risks of nuclear proliferation". He further said that Iran's practices enhance the dangers of nuclear proliferation, adding that ridding the Middle East of nuclear weapons is a "collective responsibility". "Iran's lack of transparency with the IAEA violates the UN Charter," he said, stressing that "transparency is necessary for the peaceful use of nuclear energy".

Korea Needs U.S. Cooperation to Win Saudi Nuclear Power Plant Project

Business Korea, August 11, 2022

South Korean President Yoon Suk-yeol is planning to have summit talks with Saudi Arabian Crown Prince Mohammed Bin Salman in November this year. Attention is focusing on the outcome of the meeting in the nuclear power industry as South Korea is aiming to export at least 10 nuclear power plants by 2030 and Saudi Arabia is resuming nuclear power generation projects adding up to 12 trillion won. In May this year, Saudi Arabia sent its bid invitation to South Korea, China, France and Russia regarding the construction of two nuclear power plants, 1.4 GW each. According to experts, South Korea and Russia have comparative advantages in the project in that France's supply price is very high and China has no experience in desert-area nuclear power plant construction. South Korea's biggest risk in the project is the fact that Saudi Arabia is against IAEA inspections, which may cause the United States to block South Korea's project in Saudi Arabia. According to the U.S. Atomic Energy Act of 1954, a country using U.S. nuclear power technology cannot conduct, for example, uranium enrichment without U.S. consent. South Korea's export model APR1400 was developed based on Westinghouse's technology.

Trump Admin-Saudi Nuclear Probe Resurfaces Ahead of Warrant Unseal

Newsweek, August 12, 2022

A probe into Donald Trump's interactions with Saudi Arabia has resurfaced following a report FBI agents who raided the former president's Florida residence were seeking documents related to nuclear weapons. That House of Representatives report highlighted whistleblowers' concerns with the Trump Administration's "efforts to transfer sensitive nuclear technology to Saudi Arabia," and was tweeted on Thursday by Judd Legum, who runs the Popular Information newsletter. "We don't know why Trump took classified nuclear docs," Legum said in a follow-up tweet. "But certain nuclear information would have very high economic value to Saudi Arabia and other governments." That committee report made a number of accusations against the Trump administration, including that it tried "to rush the transfer of highly sensitive U.S. nuclear technology to Saudi Arabia." This was without congressional review and in potential violation of the Atomic Energy Act that restricts the export of U.S. nuclear technology.

Syrian escalation risks all-out conflict involving Turkey, Russia, Iran

Al-Monitor, August 1, 2022

After the tripartite meeting in Tehran between Russia, Turkey and Iran to discuss the Syrian file, shelling and attacks escalated between the parties to the conflict in Syria. The regime forces and Russia attacked Hayat Tahrir al-Sham (HTS) and other factions in Idlib, while the Syrian Democratic Forces (SDF) fought off the Turkish army and the Turkish-backed Free Syrian Army (FSA) in northeastern Syria and north-central Syria. The escalation began after the Russian air force launched airstrikes on the outskirts of the village of Yacoubiyeh in the Jisr al-Shughur countryside west of Idlib, killing seven civilians and injuring several others, including women and children who were trapped under the rubble. In response, HTS and some factions in Idlib affiliated with Al-Fatah al-Mubeen operations room bombed areas under the control of the Syrian government forces

Drones strike US base in Syria

Al-Monitor, August 15, 2022

Al-Tanf, a remote US military outpost in southern Syria, came under attack by “multiple” drones early Monday morning in the latest attack on American forces and the militias they support in the country. No one was reported hurt and no property damaged, though one of the drones exploded within a compound used by the local US-backed Syrian militia known as Maghawir al-Thawra (Commandos of the Revolution). Another drone was “successfully engaged” by the US-led coalition, according to a statement released this morning. Other drones involved in the attack “were not successful” in causing any harm, the coalition said.
